SAMPLE SCORECARD · SPECIALTY CAFÉ · ILLUSTRATIVE

A 40-seat café
great coffee, quiet counter.

SCORE 15 /25

Reviewed from: an illustrative menu board. This is a sample, not a real client.

The coffee list is tight and well priced. Most of the opportunity sits beside the coffee: milks and extras, the bakery counter, and how often a drink leaves with something to eat.

01 · LAYOUT Where the eye lands ●●●○○	Drinks fill the top of the board; food sits low and small, below eye level from the queue.	Guests decide in the few seconds before they order. If food isn't in view then, it isn't in the basket.
02 · PRICES Price presentation & anchoring ●●●○○	Small and large sizes are only 2.00 apart, while the large uses half as much milk again.	A narrow size gap nudges guests up to the size that earns least per unit of milk. A wider gap, or a medium, fixes it.
03 · WORDS Descriptions that sell ●●●●○	Coffee origins are described well; bakes are listed by name only.	One line on a bake ('baked here at 7am, brown butter') does more for the counter than a lower price.
04 · RANGE Item count & complexity ●●●○○	Fourteen bakes for a 40-seat café, several of them similar.	A long counter looks generous but drives waste at close. Fewer, better-placed bakes usually sell through.
05 · EXTRAS Combos, add-ons & the second item ●●○○○	Oat milk and extra shots are free or barely charged; no breakfast pairing is offered.	Extras and pairings are where cafés make their margin. Given away, they quietly cost more than they seem.

THREE FIXES YOU CAN MAKE THIS WEEK

01
Price the extras
Set a charge for alternative milks and extra shots that covers their cost, and show it on the board.

02
Add one pairing
A morning 'coffee + bake' pairing, priced just below the two separately, shown at eye level.

03
Cut the counter by four
Drop the four slowest bakes for a month and watch waste at close.
